SPEAKING OF Shakespeare

ALICE QUINN ♦ Tuesday, January 29

Alice Quinn will soon retire as Executive Director of the POETRY SOCIETY OF AMERICA, and we hope you'll join us for a gathering at which she'll talk about the leadership she's provided not only to this influential organization but to her students and colleagues at COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY's Graduate School of the Arts. Ms. Quinn served as poetry editor at The New Yorker from 1987 to 2007 and at Alfred A. Knopf Publishers from 1976 to 1986. In 2006 she published Edgar Allan Poe & The Juke-Box: Uncollected Poems, Drafts, and Fragments by Elizabeth Bishop. Her articles about and interviews with writers, poets, and other artists have graced Artforum, the Canadian National Post, The Forward, Poetry Ireland, and The New Yorker (both in print and online), and she is now editing the journals and notebooks of Elizabeth Bishop. Thanks to the efforts of Ms. Quinn, poetry is now on display in New York City's subway cars.

BABETTE BLOCH & MARC MELLON ♦ Monday, February 25

Like Alice Quinn, whose office is located at the NAC, sculptors Babette Bloch and Marc Mellon are both active in and rent studio space at the Club. Ms. Bloch is a pioneer in the use of laser-cut stainless steel, and her figurative works reflect their environments and explore the interplay between object and light. Her sculptures can be enjoyed in such settings as the Maryland Institute of Art, the National Jewish Museum, and the Orlando Museum of Art. Mr. Mellon's work includes busts of eminent painters Will Barnet and Everett R. Kinstler at the National Arts Club, and he has also portrayed Tony Bennett, Jimmy Carter, Elie Weisel, and an impressive array of sports figures and ballet dancers. He has produced commemorative medals in honor of such leaders as Michael Jordan, Pope John Paul II, Theodore Roosevelt, and Albert Schweitzer, and his many museum pieces include the 2009 Official Barack Obama Inauguration Medal. We look forward to a delightful afternoon salon with these remarkable artists.
